WHO WE ARE

At the heart of OpenCredo (OC), are a bunch of people who love tech and collaborating with one another to solve complex problems! Firm believers of challenges offering the best opportunity for growth - for both individuals and as a company - we're driven by a desire to learn and to be at the forefront of industry developments.

OUR VALUES

- Openness - We believe lasting relationships are based on a foundation of mutual trust and respect. This means always striving to do the right thing, and operating with integrity. If you're not comfortable with saying or doing something in the open, then you probably shouldn't.
- Pioneering - We love to explore and be original and creative in our thinking. Constantly on the lookout for how to improve things, we encourage taking calculated risks, and bringing in fresh ideas and perspectives.
- Individual Responsibility, Collaborative Mindset - We're the roll up your sleeves and get stuck in types of people. We believe in working hard together, leading by example and doing what is necessary to get the job done. Taking personal responsibility for your actions and commitments, and thinking of others before yourself is key to this.
- Make a difference - We understand effecting real change requires courage, boldness and a healthy dose of pragmatism. Our people are expected to speak their minds and make their opinions known - but always with respect and humility. Not content to just sit back and let things slide, OCers do not shy away from tough decisions or difficult conversations in order to make genuine progress.
